

Privacy Policy

General. Your privacy is of extreme importance to us. In order to better understand what kind of information we collect and the way we use such information, please read our privacy policy below.

User Information. Some information about you is being collected by us when you take the following actions among others: site registration, newsletter subscription, form and/or survey filling and/or by any other means that is in accordance with and subject to prevailing New York Law.

Details and Information Collected. Visiting the site can be anonymous. However, some actions, as previously mentioned, may require you to provide us with specific details such as: full name, phone number, mailing address, or e-mail address.

The information we gather enables us to personalize, improve and continue to operate the Services. In connection with certain aspects of the website we may request, collect and/or display some of your Information. We collect the following types of information from our users.

User Content:

Some features of the website allow you to provide content to the website All content submitted by you to the website may be retained by us indefinitely, even if and after your access to the website is terminated. We may continue to disclose such content to third parties in a manner that does not reveal personal information, as described in this Privacy Policy.

IP Address Information and Other Information Collected Automatically:

- We automatically receive and record information from your web browser when you interact with the website, including your IP address and cookie information. This information is used for fighting spam/malware and also to facilitate collection of data concerning your interaction with the Services (e.g., what links you have clicked on).
- Generally, the website automatically collects usage information, such as the number and frequency of visitors to the website. We may use this data in aggregate form, that is, as a statistical measure, but not in a manner that would identify you personally. This type of aggregate data enables us and third parties authorized by us to figure out how often individuals use parts of the website so that we can analyze and improve them.

Information Collected Using Cookies:

- Cookies are pieces of text that may be provided to your computer through your web browser when you access a website. Your browser stores cookies in a manner associated with each website you visit. We use cookies to enable our servers to recognize your web browser and tell us how and when you visit the website and otherwise use the website through the Internet.
- Our cookies do not, by themselves, contain personal information, and we do not combine the general information collected through cookies with other personal information to tell us who you are. As noted, however, we do use cookies to identify that your web browser has accessed aspects of the website.
- Most browsers have an option for turning off the cookie feature, which will prevent your browser from accepting new cookies, as well as (depending on the sophistication of your browser software) allowing you to decide on acceptance of each new cookie in a variety of ways. We strongly recommend that you leave cookies active, because they enable you to take advantage the most attractive features of the website.

- This Privacy Policy covers our use of cookies only and does not cover the use of cookies by third parties. We do not control when or how third parties place cookies on your computer. For example, third party websites to which a link points may set cookies on your computer.
